

EHESP

Need to develop a public health program or project?

Offer an INTERNATIONAL INTERNSHIP to a well-qualified student or future public health manager

EHESP : the only school of its kind in France

The EHESP is a public institution with a dual role of education and research into public health and social welfare. It fosters team-work between the disparate cultures of public health and management.

The EHESP has four main missions:

To provide initial training for senior public sector managers and inspectors in health and welfare services

To provide higher education in public health, in close partnership with other institutions

To contribute to research in public health

To promote international relations, in particular through exchanges with similar educational institutions

70
international internships
per year

900
host institutions

50
countries

Benefits and objectives for the host institution

- To ENTRUST a significant task to a well-qualified student
- To BENEFIT from a fresh perspective regarding its practices and from support in identifying and analysing ways of making strategic improvements
- To COMPARE these practices with those of the French health system
- To DEVELOP relations through the opportunity to participate in international internship forum
- To ORGANISE study visits to France for professionals and students

Role of the tutor

As the student's correspondent during the internship, the role of the internship tutor is to :

- design a programme in line with the objectives of the placement validated by the EHESP
- facilitate contact and exchanges between the student and staff of the host institution
- monitor student progress through to the final assessment

The student also has an academic tutor at EHESP whose role is to provide pedagogical assistance throughout the internship.

Testimonials

Valéry RIDDE, Ph.D

Public Health Associate Professor at the University of Montreal, Canada

«The Public Health Research Institute of the University of Montreal (IRSPUM) had the honour of hosting an intern from the EHESP. The research project in which the student was involved dealt with health issues of migrants not covered by health insurance in Montreal. The exchange of practices and research methods used in France and Europe were beneficial to enhance the methodology of the project. The student always had new ideas and solutions to offer. His contribution was essential to the success of the improved method of recruitment.»

Kanya BENJAMANEPAIROJ

Student Master of Public Health
2014-2016

«The internship at Columbia University Mailman School of Public Health has given me a chance to build my professional experience and networks at the same time. It was such a great opportunity having worked with many renowned experts in the research field of HIV/AIDS and hepatitis C (HCV) research, and Health Economics. Not only did I integrate theory and knowledge from our classes into practice, but I also improved in my field of interest and learned new skills.»
